given as the cause.

—The sky cleared off after sundown last evening, but clouded up again after dark. The cool winds from the northwest whistled and blew sharp and strong, as if amnouncing a polar wave approaching.

—The police last night arrested N. M. Outlaw on the charge of carrying concealed weapons—a strong steel-bladed table-knife ground to a sharp point like a bowie knife. Wm. Mullins was arrested on the charge of malicious cutting. The other arrests numbered five, all for light misdemeanors.

—The politeness, or rather the impoliteness, of men and women always crops out at the street slone crossings when the streets are muddy. By studying human nature from that point of view you can get a clear insight into the peculiar "cussedness" of numbers of people. Mud is a great exposer of persons.

"There was a man hour town.

Well, business was dull at first. But better times came, and its queer. One day with a rush he sold all his stuff, But, he sheriff was suctioned." —Two little newsboys engaged in a roughand-tumble fight on the Main street sidewalk, near Madison, yesterday. They soon rolled out into the muddy street, where the combat raged for several minutes, until a tall policeman came and captured one of the midgets.
On his person was found a small single-barreled pistol, loaded to the muzzle, but he had no chance to use it during the fight, the other boy making it pretty lively for him. The fight gathered a crowd of 100 men, who seemed to enjoy the juvenile war.

—At the chancery court an original bill has been filed by John Overton, John S. Claybrook and William L. Vance against the Memphis and Little Rock railway company as reorganized. The complainants allege that they are the owners of the ferry franchise, or ferry running from the city of Memphis to the opposite bank of the Mississippi river in the State of Arkansas, and that said railroad company is using said ferry privilege without compensating the complainants for such use. Complainants pray for a reference to the clerk and master to ascertain the amount so due, and that the defendant be compelled to pay proper rents and compensation for the use of said ferry privilege by the transfer boat of said railroad company.

Ohio of course, was and is Republican again. can again, which is not likely, will not be missed. Ohio of course, was, and is Republican, and so it is no disappointment. Some shrewd politicians think that even Pennsylvania, with her twenty-nine electoral votes will overcome her long-lived prejudice by State pride, and cast them for Hancock and Democratic rule. Though this is scarcely probable, I believe Pennsylvania is going to astound her neighbors in regard to the increased strength of the Democracy within her borders."

HIGH-PRICED COTTON.

Col. T. B. Norment, of Tucker, Turnage & Co.

Col. T. B. Norment, cotton salesman for Tucker, Turnage & Co., 204 Front street, yesterday made the champion sale of cotton of this season. He sold to W. B. Sater (the well-known and popular cotton buyer), for thirteen and one-half cents per pound, four bales raised by Charles McKinney, colored, who lives near Bartlett, this county. The colored people about Bartlett seem to be successful in raising good cotton. Last spring Colonel Norment sold several bales, produced by a colored man in that neighborhood, for fifteen cents per pound. These transactions show industry on the part of the producer and judicious handling by the merchants.
